Mistake detectives

Every Monday our teacher gives us a ‘mistake detective’ game. Today we’re looking at Bobur’s email to his English friend.

His first sentence is: “I have twelve years old.” We know the answer: in English we say I’m twelve — with be, not have!

The next one is: “My mum go to work by car.” Malika finds the mistake, and we all agree: she goes to work — he, she, it + -s.

Then: “I am liking football very much.” That’s easy — like is a stative verb: I like football very much.

The last mistake is: “I’m very tired to play the drums today.” Everybody shouts: “You’re too tired to play!” Bobur laughs: “OK, OK — everybody can make a mistake! You’re very good detectives!”

Answer the questions in one sentence.

1. What game does the class play every Monday?

2. What is wrong in ‘I have twelve years old’?

3. Why is ‘My mum go’ wrong?

4. Why can’t we say ‘I am liking’?

5. Correct the last sentence.
